COLLEGE AT A GLANCE :

The Khowang College is a purely rural based higher educational institution situated in the western part of the Dibrugarh District of Assam. The college offers co-education in the Arts and Commerce steams. Since its inception, it has been playing an important role in the social sphere of the locality. The institute is re-accredited by NAAC with 'B' grade and ranked between 150 to 200 institution of higher education by NIRF.

THEME OF THE SEMINAR :

Development is a composite concept with multiple meaning. Sustainable development is one of the important dimensions of development in the present era. Sustainable rural development is vital to the economic, social and environmental viability of the nation. Rural development is a process that seeks social change and sustainable economic development for the rural community's on-going progress. Sustainable rural development aims at maximising the net benefits of economic activities subject to maintaining the stock of productive assets (physical, human and environmental) and providing social safety net to meet the basic needs of the rural poor.

Due to lack of conducive socio- political environment, the rural areas of North East India have been associated with some hurdles viz. poverty, unemployment, under-employment, illiteracy, socio-economic inequalities, endebtedness, ill health and unhygienic condition etc. Under such socio-economic situation, Sustainable Rural Development (SRD) is one of the major priorities, which are drawing the attention of Governments, policymakers, research scholars both in India and abroad. The North East India has also been facing these chronic situation. Hence, still it is a matter of discussion from various angles to trace out the reality of sustainable rural development specially in North-east India which is vitally important for national development process.

SUB THEMES :

1. Issues of Ecology and Environment in sustainability of rural areas.
2. Education and Awareness in Sustainable Rural Development.
3. People's participation in Sustainable Rural Development
4. Micro Finance and Rural Entrepreneurship in Sustainable Rural Development.
5. Agricultural Sector and cropping pattern for sustainable future of rural areas.
